

Crime Tracking

Attenti's Crime Scene Correlation Software, known as Crime Tracking, automatically compares crime scene data with tracked participants' locations. The system is flexible and customizable. Law enforcement can configure the reporting parameters in order to reduce or increase the volume of data they receive; for example, by selecting a smaller or larger radius to search each offense type or maximum speed captured in a zone.

Specifications

Crime Tracking is fully accessible from any web-enabled computer, tablet, or device. The only software required is an Internet browser, such as Internet Explorer, Google Chrome, or Firefox. No software or add-ons are required, and the software is tested against the browser versions currently supported. Crime Tracking is upgraded regularly as enhancements are released.

Key Features

Automated Crime Scene Correlation

Agencies can electronically transmit their daily reported crimes and our powerful system will correlate the crime times and locations with the tracked offender points in our system.

Automated Reporting

Attenti automatically processes and generates Crime Summary Reports. Automated reports are sent electronically and include crime type, address, time, and the tracked offenders who were in the vicinity.

Query Capability

Crime Tracking also provides officers the ability to query for the location points of tracked offenders. Query options include by address, by coordinates, or by defining an area directly on the map.

Automated Zone Correlation

Officers can create an unlimited number of zones around schools, drug areas, etc. A zone report is emailed daily with the correlating hits sorted by zone name. The report displays the tracked offenders who were in the vicinity of the zone.

Configurable Settings

To fit your agency's unique needs, the system allows you to customize your administrative settings by crime type.
